Singita Launches Singita Private: Six unique villas under one umbrella

Singita has launched Singita Private with the introduction of two new exclusive packages in Southern and East Africa. Singita Private is a collection of six exclusive-use African properties under one umbrella. Each of the six private properties offer a secluded safari experience far from the bustle of the main property in the concession, providing guests with their own private base from which they can explore their own slice of Africa. In line with Singita's ethos as a conservation company, each Singita Castleton booking will contribute 1% toward the construction of a new environmental education centre at Singita Sabi Sand.

Each property is designed with spacious interiors to comfortably accommodate larger groups, and exteriors that branch out into the wild surrounds, offering unobstructed views of unspoiled Africa. Every property additionally comes with its own staff, including a dedicated host, who is ready to help guests create their own personalized safari experience. This is especially essential for multi-generational groups, where older and younger travelers often have different ideas of how to spend their vacation. Guests at Singita properties will be able to experience the untouched wilderness in their own African home away from home, secluded from the distraction of others, yet in an area spacious enough for a family.

The first new Singita Private experience includes three nights at Singita Explore and two nights at Serengeti House exploring 350,000 acres of private reserve in Tanzania. At both properties guests are in complete control with a camp host, chef, camp staff and a private guide at their disposal, allowing them to arrange activities on a whim. Singita Explore is a private-use tented camp on the plains of the Serengeti, that is pitched in different locations during the year to provide optimal game viewing. Singita Serengeti House can comfortably accommodate up to eight guests with a house comprised of 4 suites, and also features a large swimming pool and its own private tennis court. Few
